Butler "Busted"!

The Islam Invasion: Will France give Islam the bomb?

Elon just bought control of CNN.[1]

Ilhan Omar is not who she says she is. Turns out her name is Ilhan Nur Said Elmi. Same last name as her husband with whom she had children. So! When asked if she married her brother, she answered: "Not to my knowledge."[2] Trump calls for her to be immediately removed from Congress. What we know is that a court document in which Ilhan is identified as "Ilhan Nur Said Elmi, a/k/a Ilhan Abdullahi Omar (the "Subject")."[3]

As for Iran: President Trump has announced that the U.S. is "no longer negotiating with Iran." That's all Bibi needed to hear!

This idiot took a sledge hammer and beat off the head of the lead soldier on the famous Iwo-Jima monument. An immigrant and, I know, you didn't have to ask, but I did: he's here illegally![4]

Don't mess with those Amish girls! Junior Jose Davila-Moran, took a serrated knife and was chased off with a "weed whacker." Last week, this guy approached "Jane Doe," (name not given), 23 years old, and tried to put her in handcuffs. When he tapped her on her shoulder, she turned about, stepped away, screamed, picked up her weed whacker and chased that devil away. They caught him, charged him, jailed him, and now he will be DEPORTED — Yep! another illegal bites the dust.

We might get to and through the first two items:

Dems have a thing about ID checking; except when it's one of their own events. The fall gal appointed to run this protection detail was a known incompetent; she placed snipers behind blinds obstructing a view of candidate Trump, and she inexplicably left an obvious shooting perch available to Crooks. Senator Grassley concluded his investigation and focused on the Secret Service failure to share threat information which allowed this totally preventable tragedy to have been avoided.[8] Lives were lost that day; now President Trump came within inches, actually, less than an inch, of being killed that day.

Even SI, with its leftist gravitational center acknowledges the obvious: Three questions: 1. Germany. There are other examples! Islam would be remiss if they didn't see this as relatively low hanging fruit.

Macron claims "There was foreign manipulation of information which led to unacceptable and even stupid comments by many, including foreign leaders."[14] He claimed the images being circulated showing Palestinian flags waving while the Eiffel Tower burns are fake — but he does not point out that picture directly, he uses that one to dismiss all of them, so I took a closer look.

It is true that there are AI manipulated images circulating on social media: Palestinian flags and fireworks at the Eiffel Tower, another that includes Jordanian flags, the Eiffel Tower burning or collapsing.[15] However, so far, this is the only video theme that has been proved to be fake. Several other videos depicting what is clearly adult, Muslim men perpetrating the more violent acts are not disputed. Macron will simply not admit that his administration's immigration policies have failed and these riots are the latest manifestation of his failure. He faces an election challenge next year. Keep that in mind!

I found it interesting that Macron has not spoken publicly about the riots until after these AI manipulated images circulated. Well, let's see here. I saw a video of a French woman complaining that Macron has said quote, end quote: "nothing" about the riots—she posted on October 12.

We've heard reports of Macron spending his evening enjoying Celine Dion in concert while France burned—October 16.[16]

But it does not seem likely that he said nothing about this. So, let's see — the rioting began in about the second week of September, and he mentioned it while in Madrid (Spain), on September 30, saying "Under no circumstances can political leaders legitimize violence" apparently taking a shot at his political rival, Jean-Luc Melenchon (Mel-en-shon), whom he accuses of agitating the violence.[17] That sounds like a political statement leading into an upcoming election year, not an official statement to the French people about the on-going violence occurring under his administration.

At an Auto Show, on October 12, in Paris, Macron made a statement including remarks about the property destruction, arson, and violence "involving students and outside agitators" as being unacceptable. He didn't identify the "outside agitators." Essentially, he attributed the unrest to teacher shortages and school schedules.[18] That was October 12. These kids are burning buildings, beating up old people, torching cars because of teacher shortages! We'd go to the beach! Anyway! I'd say, that, so far, Macron had not actually in any official way addressed the riots.

On October 18, a few days ago, he finally made a televised address to his nation. This was after he took a major hit for enjoying a Dion concert while France burned.

In his official statement he described the protestors as members of "radical-left groups joined by criminals."

He condemned the violence and expressed anger and shame over the destruction.[19]

The essential take-aways: 1. Serious violence, including physical injury, property damage, and looting, had already been occurring and was already overwhelming law enforcement by the beginning of October. Macron did not take it seriously enough to become aggressive until 500,000 protestors took to the streets on October 17. So, one thing the French learned is what it takes to get this guys attention.

Second, Macron shifts blame away from his immigration policies. He blames gas prices, caused by America's war with Iran, in which "France" has proudly refused to participate. (Well, sir, maybe you're okay with Islam getting a bomb! That concerns me. But if this is about nothing more than your ego and incompetence, may I say, perhaps if you had helped us shield the world from fanatic terrorists with nukes, we could have ended this by now!)

Hold on through the break. I'll be back!

Segment.02 Hello. Welcome back! I'm Dr. Jerry Scheidbach, pastor at the Lighthouse, your brain masseur, and Paul Revere's lantern lighter, lighting the lamps in the church belfry arch, signaling the enemy is on the march—an enemy that would steal from us our liberty.

Will France be the path for Islam to get the bomb? Macron is not concerned about Iraniacs getting the nuclear bomb—at least he is not interested in actually doing anything about it. But that's France: Remember Germany.

We were looking at Macron's statement to the Nation on October 18.

Macron's government refuses to admit his party's immigration policies has invited a monster into their house and fed it till now it's large enough to seriously threaten to eat the country like a box of French fries. France has a huge population of Muslims: 10% of the population of the entire country as of 2020.[20] Remember, that's the ratio of Iranians to radical Muslims in Iran — 10%.[21]

Every Muslim true to his faith hates France, hates the government of France, and despises every concession the French have made to them. The only reason they migrate is to conquer France and bring it into a Muslim Caliphate—unless France wakes up now, their government will be brought under the authority of a successor to Muhammad, and the ummah (Ummah refers to the nation, the "global community of all Muslim believers," united in one goal: religious and political power over all nations and peoples).[22] The dream of the Muslim Brotherhood—the Muslim tribe to which Hasan subscribed, and who will be executed by firing squad on December 3, 2026.

[21] Trying to get a solid number from the Iranian regime is impossible. Militant Muslims count everyone as a Muslim in whatever country they control. Iran's regime statements claim Iran is 94% Muslim, but an independent survey found it's more like 40%. Among the Muslims that fully support the regime, it's closer to 10% by most Western estimates.

[22] https://www.britannica.com/place/Caliphate For Ummah, see https://www.britannica.com/topic/ummah

© Jerry W. Scheidbach (All rights reserved.)

Finally, Macron concludes his speech by blaming it on his political rivals and makes it all about the upcoming election. He advances the conspiracy theory that this is being done to unseat him from office.

It's a form of narcissism to virtually ignore the student riots, ignore the first outbreaks of violence from some students and militant anti-European thugs, and with the exception of one or two references to the unrest to take political shots at his rival, to only speak seriously to it all after he takes a major political hit when French media report protest organizer, Lina Bernard, portraying him as a modern day Louis XVI or Queen Marie Antoinette—the chic chick who is alleged to have said to the revolting peasants: "Let them eat cake."[23]

A Reuters article reports on Macron's statement, provides some authentic video of the riots, the historic city Hall building burning, its tower collapsing and others depicting what certainly looks like burka draped women and men in all black, hooded with masks, gathered at a riot scene confirming that this is not merely a "student protest"[24] of kids angry about school schedules and not enough teachers.

France has been at virtual war with Islam for a long time. The closest the government gets to reporting what private accounts attest is "there seems to be an overrepresentation of foreign immigrants."

Remember the violent suburban riots of October 27, 2005 in France?[25] The French Senate dismissed any connection to violent Islamists and made every concession to Muslim demands.

Then came the 2015-2020 Islamist terrorist attacks. The first was the 2015 Charlie Hebdo thing — the response of Muslims to Hebdo's cartoon mocking Muhammad — 12 killed by offended Muslims in cold blood at Hebdo's offices. Here is a link to what I think was the offending cartoon.[26] This was followed by the Paris Islamist terrorist attacks killing 130 people (November of the same year). In July of 2016, Islamist Jihad headed terrorists killed 86 people on Bastille Day in France: ISIS bragged they did it. On October of 2020, a teacher, Samuel Paty, was beheaded by an Islamist terrorist who was angered by the teacher encouraging classroom discussion about the Muhammad cartoons.[27]

Here are resources that detail the turbulence in France caused by Islamists since the Charlie Hebdo attack.[28]

Then came Macron's confrontation with Islamist separatism in 2020-2023. October of 2020 — always it's October with these crazy people, Hmmm — Muslims demanded separation from the laws of France and attempted to segregate themselves under Sharia. Macron's government temporarily closed seven mosques, and dissolved five Islamist associations.[29] France has had an ongoing dispute with the people he invited into his country both politically and culturally. France tried banning conspicuous religious symbols in their public schools, passed laws forbidding face coverings in public spaces, and restrictions on certain religious garments in schools. This affected Christians too, but what instigated it was Muslim behavior. That's great! It always goes that way. Perfectly innocent people have their rights undermined because of the bad behavior of others.

Then came the 2023 nationwide riots following Nahel Merzouk's death — it was France's George Floyd moment — a police officer shot 17-year old Muslim Nahel during a traffic stop, near Paris. To summarize, the French did not find the riots were related to terrorism or Jihad, nor did their investigators conclude it was a Muslim agitated uprising.[30] The 2023 riots looked a lot like what we are seeing in France right now.

Then came July, 2024, France opened the Olympics with a vile display of anti-Christ sentiment.[31] Remember this? Maybe they thought they'd placate their Muslim population by insulting Christians and blaspheming Christ.

France decided the Olympics would be a good platform to make their announcement repudiating any connection with Christians

What an auspicious year for Christ's kingdom. The French government openly repudiated Christ as King, and made a mockery of what is one of if not the most revered Christian ceremony: the Last Supper, while at the same time celebrating a lifestyle that mocks both nature and nature's GOD.

This brings us to today! We come to September-October of 2026, France, who created a vacuum by embracing Humanism and its vacuous assumptions about man and GOD, empty of substance because empty of faith, and so empty of faith, without hope beyond themselves, and trusting in man without God, fall prey to the Devil's designs.[32] France is a humanist government: the first affirmation of the Humanist Manifesto is "As nontheists, we begin with humans not God, nature not deity." And "No deity will save us; we must save ourselves."[33]

No surprise then, that the government of France would sponsor an event that openly mocks Christianity and elevates the most unnatural of all ideologies: the LGBTQ etc. And accomplishes both in one act of outrageous Blasphemy. Notice, they blaspheme not only the Creator, and nature itself. "The Fool hath said in his heart there is no God. They are corrupt … there is none that doeth good" (Psalm 14:1; 53:1).

What did the French Christians do? There are so few, but with the help of the rest of Christians around the world, enough noise was made against this blasphemy, the devil, being resisted, bowed and apologized and retreated—but, guess what the Christians did not do? You are right! They didn't go to the streets rioting, burning buildings, killing police, or robbing their neighborhood stores. Selah!

In July of 2024, France pivoted hard left toward Satan and Hell, and America pivoted right toward Christ and Heaven.

Macron is a Socialist, and an agnostic Humanist, but his rival, Jean-Luc Mélenchon, is a more extreme Socialist, and founder of La France Insoumise,[34] (It means France Unbowed, or Unsubmissive France, or France In Revolt). While Macron is considered to be a Catholic agnostic, Melenchon openly declares he has "broken with the Christian faith." He is not agnostic, he is atheistic: "I live a secular spirituality. I am a nonbeliever."[35] He is a Freemason, and so an unwitting worshipper of Baal.

Macron has denied his policies have opened the door to the anti-west, Christ denying, liberty hating, freedom robbing, wife beating (Yeah, here's a video of Muslim kids being taught how to correctly beat their wives[36]) — this horde of barbarians beating down the gates of Humanist France, are they attempting to overrun France and secure a nuclear bomb.

Macron dismissed what is obvious to the rest of us: France has thrown open her doors to third world religious ideologues whose religion teaches Islam will attain world dominion through Jihad and will religiously and politically dominate the infidel. I saw a meme that presents the contrast between Islam and Christianity very well: the Christian says, "I can't do that; it's against my
