Keep the Happy In Happy THANKSGIVING!

Segment.01 Hello. I'm Dr. Jerry Scheidbach, pastor of the Lighthouse Baptist Church in Santa Maria, CA—and your brain masseur—get ready for your brain massage.

Let's keep Happy Thanksgiving happy!!!! — As in remembering HAPPIER DAYS! Trump did a great job putting a few chuckles in his Turkey pardon speech back in 2019 — in case you forgot it; President Trump expressed his appreciation for how well the Turkeys, one named Bread, and the other named Butter, had been trained by their owners to remain calm in any situation.

He explained that was good because he understood Bread and Butter were subpoenaed to appear in Schiff's basement — and that at least then Schiff would have testimony from someone that had actually met him.

The pardoning of the Turkey's began with Lincoln, continued with Truman, got institutionalized with Bush II, don't know who was the first to pardon BOTH, but Fox told us Trump did it, and this year Biden did it — but Biden pardoning a TURKEY has a different meaning than ...

Thanksgiving is probably my favorite holiday — I love them all. All our American traditions are great! And the left is attacking every one of them. Thanksgiving is under attack, and almost as viciously as they attack Christmas. At least with Thanksgiving, it's only attacked by the antichristian ragers—

(What's an antichrist-rager, or an antichristian-rager? — Bible thump alert — BIBLE THUMP ALERT! If you are a God-hating, America-as-founded despising, Demoncrat, and you are driving heavy equipment, please pull over and brace yourself. The brain masseur is about to make you mad! Those of you whose blood pressure rises anytime someone mentions the BIBLE, or GOD, or JESUS, grab a paper bag if you can find one; and get ready to breathe into it when you start hyperventilating. All you liberal mommies out there need to grab your kids and cover their ears, especially those who love to take your children to the library to be taught by confused transgender freaks, because — (oh, you don't like that word? Well, if you are new to the Brain Massage show, the first thing you'll need to know is I don't use terms intended merely to hurt someone—I use words purposely and very carefully. So, let me help you out here.

The word freak is used informally as an adjective to describe, “a person regarded as strange because of their unusual appearance or behavior.” And if you've seen the clownish costumes of these transgender and transvestite people providing sex education for children, then you know the word is appropriate. It is freaky, freakish — abnormal!

Here is a quick rundown of how this word worked its way to its present meaning.

1560 - it was used to speak of a sudden change of mind for no apparent cause. Probably derived from a Middle English word friken — which means to “move nimbly, or briskly,” which is akin to the Old English word frician, which means to dance. This morphed into freking used to speak of one who is capricious in their behavior, someone who acts on a whim, and freak which in the mid-1500s was used to describe one as eager, zealous, bold, brave, or fierce.

Its use to describe a capricious notion (the mid 1500s) to something unusual, a fancy (1784), morphed, in the 1800s, to be used for something “abnormally developed,” either a person or a plant, or animal, or whatever — and the phrase freak of nature became popular for bearded ladies, albinos, and so on.

By the late 1800s, 1887, and on, it was used to identify someone obsessed with anything — a health freak, a study freak, — whatever stood out as unusual, strange, or bizarre came to be called a freak in the early 1900s.

As a verb, its root meaning is to “change, distort” — as a noun, it identifies someone considered “out there,” someone that is abnormal in behavior or appearance.

It is rooted, interestingly, in a word used among the Scottish that, used positively, described a “bold man, a warrior” — and negatively, as one that is “greedy, eager, bold, or impudent.”

Now, if you cannot see how perfectly this word may be used to describe transgender advocates and other gender-confused anti-Christ warriors — I can't give any more time to trying to help you. They are, by definition, freaks. (Now, a caveat is in order. There is undoubtedly some subjectivity in how we apply the epithet. As our culture degenerates from the standards and norms of our Founders, there follows a parallel degradation of our sense of morals. In another decade, we Christians may be called the freaks—oh, wait; that's already happening. Young Christian men and women are looked at and called freaks because they desire to save themselves for their life partner — and refuse to join in the sexual promiscuity that has given us the disturbing statistic: 3 million young people contracting a sexually transmitted disease yearly. BUT WE DON'T CARE ABOUT OUR CHILDREN! LET THEM DESTROY THEIR FUTURES AND THEIR LIVES! ANY HOPE THEY MIGHT HAVE FOR A HEALTHY AND HAPPY MARRIAGE IS OF NO CONCERN TO US, RIGHT? LET'S ENCOURAGE THEM TO LIVE LIKE RATS AND CRAWL ALL OVER EACH OTHER! —

But, I must say that according to nature and nature's GOD, these people are freaks against nature.

But, there are many laboring to “mainstream” the unnatural tendency among about, what is it, 1 to 3% of the population who reject their God-given gender and insanely imagine they can change it by simply declaring themselves to be whatever gender they desire to be. And that, my friend, is freaky, it's freakish. So, that should have given all ragers time to hide in their darkness from the glaring light of TRUTH exposing their garish (geh-rish) behavior.

Now, what is an antichrist-rager? The Bible says, “Why do the heathen rage and the people imagine a vain thing. The kings of the earth set themselves, and the rulers take counsel together, against the LORD, and against His anointed (That's Christ), saying, Let us break their bands asunder, and cast away their cords from us” (Psalm 2).

So, an antichrist rager is someone who resents the idea that Christ would reign over them. They hate it when we teach them all that Christ has commanded us; they rebel viscerally against the idea that Christ's laws govern the world — some are content to let Him be King of Heaven. But they go all rabid if you suggest that He is presently the KING OF THE EARTH. And they become irrationally enraged when Christians assert His morality in this world and promote it as the way of RIGHTEOUSNESS and expose their evil rebellion as the way of WICKEDNESS — they get, well, all freaky about it. They get, haha, freaked out!

The Antichrist-ragers are attacking every holy day in America that is related in any real way to CHRIST and Christianity. Halloween, that's okay — but Christ-mas (means CHRIST was SENT), or EASTER (from a German cognate, oester which means resurrection), or THANKSGIVING — in all things give thanks.

Of course, as many of you know, Christmas and Easter are attacked from both sides.

Anyway, the attack on Thanksgiving has developed into an open assault. We live at a critical time in the history of our country.

We will decide to pull this erstwhile God-fearing country out from under God entirely, and so provoke God to drop the U.S. into the maw of hell to be swallowed while Satan burps and picks the Christians from his teeth. Or we will rise against the antichrist-ragers and assert the RIGHTEOUSNESS OF CHRIST and HIS CLAIM of LORDSHIP over ALL Heaven and Earth and reaffirm America as ONE NATION UNDER GOD, INDIVISIBLE with LIBERTY AND JUSTICE FOR ALL — that's right! For ALL.

We have acknowledged the right of crazy men to think they are women, but we refuse to yield our right to recognize them for what they are — confused men.

Get this! We have gone so far as to acknowledge your right not to have your children exposed to Christian indoctrination in the public school because we all believe in freedom of thought and belief, right?

My right to believe in God and worship Christ Jesus does not mean I have a right to make you believe and worship — right?

So what makes you think your right to believe you are a girl when biologically you are a male of the species, gives you the right to force me to believe it or affirm it? You don't feel any obligation to AFFIRM MY BELIEF IN CREATION — why should I affirm your belief in, say, evolution?

Why can you teach my children evolution and gender confusion and distort American history and tell my children what I believe are LIES about America and about his family's faith — what logic is this? You can teach your religion to my kids, but I can't teach my religion to yours.

I AM DONE WITH THIS NONSENSE. You have fooled Christians long enough. We will wake up and rise and put a stop to this nonsense.

You don't get to teach your values to my child. You have no obligation to affirm my beliefs — and I have NO OBLIGATION TO AFFIRM YOURS.

You might think I've strayed from the point, but indeed I have not. Public education has become Marxist indoctrination in America. They want to teach America out of our children — and this is partly done by attacking all our Christian cultural holidays — and they are attacking Thanksgiving.

Okay, it's time to take a short break. Look, I believe all men must repent and believe on Jesus Christ — and confess Jesus is LORD — but that does not give me the right to force you to confess Jesus is LORD — right? What if I pass a law that says you must AFFIRM MY FAITH and AGREE WITH ME and USE THE LANGUAGE that makes me comfortable! That would be wrong, right? Of course, right. So what makes you think you have the right to force me to say you are a man when I know you were born a girl?

And what gives you the right to indoctrinate my children contrary to my values and beliefs? What gives you the right to turn the children against their parents, and their own country?

I say YOU DON'T HAVE THAT RIGHT!

So, hold on through the break. I'll be right back.

Segment.02 Hello. Welcome back! I'm Dr. Scheidbach, pastor at the Lighthouse, your brain masseur, and Paul Revere's lantern lighter, lighting the lamps in the church belfry arch, signaling the enemy is on the march, an enemy that would steal from us our liberty.

Okay, a bit of current news: Here is a town in Green Charter Township MI, that did not like their town's leadership getting into bed with China and voted to allow the Communists to plant a huge vehicle battery plant in their town.¹ They told the board NO, but the board went forward with it anyway — and the people rallied, voted every one of them out on their ear, and changed the locks after the election results were declared — they replaced all of them. They said they did not want a COMMUNIST COMPANY operating in their town — the council tried to hide the truth — but someone read the by laws of the company, called GoTION, a contraction of Go INNOVATION — and discovered it includes the provision in every CHINESE SPONSORED BUSINESS OPERATING HERE IN AMERICA — here it is word for word: “The company shall set up a party organization and carry out party activities in accordance with the constitution of the communist party of China.” It's a multi billion dollar plant, would bring thousands of jobs to the community — but the townspeople of Green Charter Township said we don't want Communists companies here — the board ignored them, and they got ousted. It's hard to cheat an election where 98% of the voters are in one mind!

My friend sent this to me with a note: “This is what we need to do!” Amen sister! That's right! We need focus locally and make sure the evil of our state does not come here.

Don't let the evil of the state public education program take hold in Santa Maria — don't sit down for it! We are launching an intense LOCAL ACTION program for our valley — you'll see it coming soon.

Get a load of this. Now medical officials in Canada are admitting that 74% of those who were triple vaxed in Canada now have VAIDS.²

Canadian COVID-19 figures produced by the Canadian govt. are misleading. Study this document,³ and you'll see what I mean. When you put all the numbers together, the numbers reported by Canadian health ministry, it is clear that the unvaccinated population accounted for the least amount of cases every single week during the pandemic — while the numbers for vaccinated and triple vaccinated Canadians soared — and now the records show that about 74% of Canadians who were triple vaxed have VAIDS — that vaccine acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

I m thankful the TRUTH is breaking out! The truth about Thanksgiving is breaking out too!

Chuck Norris is a God-Fearing Christian American Patriot — he wrote an article for Thanksgiving published in World Net Daily — November 25. WDN is another source I use often, but I think I failed to include it in my list of resources last week — I'm grateful to faithful listeners Tom and Nancy who brought this to my attention.

Chuck Norris was addressing an upcoming article in Time magazine (Dec. 2-9 issue) that is titled, "The Way American Kids Are Learning About the 'First Thanksgiving' Is Changing."^[1] (You can read it here online. Google Time.com, search for Thanksgiving history. I've read the article and Norris' response. I think I'll follow the Norris article and interject my comments along the way.

I remember tracing my hand on a paper plate and then gluing on the feathers and dotting the thumb with eyes, and coloring in the Turkey — and the teacher having paper headbands with feathers for some of us and paper headbands with the picture of a Pilgrim hat glued to the front for others of us, and orchestrating a mock-up of the first thanksgiving there at Plymouth Rock.

Norris laments that has been replaced with “teachers who instruct the kids that Pilgrims and Puritans were invaders who destroyed the land and annihilated the indigenous civilization.”

According to the Time article, teachers gathered on November 9 at a workshop in Washington, D.C., titled “Rethinking Thanksgiving in Your Classroom.”

In this conference, the teachers were told that the Pilgrims were not enjoying a peaceful celebration of their first successful harvest with the Indians. Instead, really, they were celebrating the burning of a Pequot village and the killing of the son of an Indian chief. Of course, most of the teachers were stunned at the “revelation.” One said she came from the conference realizing she had been teaching her children a lot of misperceptions. Really?

Well, is there any truth to their claims?

Dr. Bangs was the chief curator at Plymouth Plantation. He has served as a distinguished visiting professor at Arizona State University. He is a recognized scholar that has authored over ten books on the era of the Pilgrims and Puritans.

The esteemed doctor-of-all-things-Pilgrim wrote a defense against those who try to debunk the original Thanksgiving story: “The Truth About Thanksgiving is that the Debunkers are Wrong.”

And, in typical liberal-dodge-the-real-issue fashion, if one of these Marxist-loving, God-hating Thanksgiving “bunkers” is challenged to PROVE their allegations against our fond memories of history lessons in the bygone days when our teachers loved America as founded and taught us to love our country too — they say, “Was the ‘first Thanksgiving’ merely a pretext for bloodshed, enslavement, and displacement that would follow in later decades?” “To ask whether this is true is to ask the wrong question. It’s true to its purposes. ... And that’s all it needs to be. For these holidays say much less about who we really were in some specific Then, than about who we want to be in an ever-changing Now.”

Uh-huh! I can see some heads exploding out there—intuitively, you know this is bunko-talk. If you are asking whether what these nay-sayers against Christian settlement of this country are correct — you ask the “wrong question.” It does not matter if the details are accurate — what matters is that the historical narrative is “true to its purposes.

Dr. West wrote an excellent article, “We’re Living on the Plymouth Rock,”^[2] which explains what clever liars these “bunkers” really are.

For example, the dear Dr. West points out what I had the pleasure to discover some years ago when I conducted a thorough study of the history of Thanksgiving Day. The Pilgrims of Plymouth were revered and remembered — not so much in the “federal” laws of our land, but virtually everywhere in the local customs of the people. As for State recognition of the significance of the Plymouth landing and that first Thanksgiving feast, New York kicked it off, and several states followed the example, setting aside a certain day as a day of Thanksgiving, commemorating our Pilgrim forebears, as early as 1817. In periodicals, newspapers, speeches, and books, the Pilgrims were remembered, and their memory cherished.

On the occasion of the 200th anniversary of the landing, when the good people of the State stamped the famous rock with the date, 1620, Daniel Webster helped memorialize the landing site with a speech, “The First Settlement in New England” — that was

December 20, 1820. In that speech, Webster also memorialized many of the key features in the Thanksgiving feast narrative as we have received it.

By the way, in this speech, Webster took a swipe at wicked slavery—he argued that the sentiments shaped by the beliefs of these early pioneers would be appalled by slavery—and would wish it opposed by any who honored their memory. How fitting that Abraham Lincoln, who led the nation to honor the anti-slavery sentiment alive in the bosom of every true Christian, would be the one who would establish Thanksgiving as a national holiday.

David Barton has a fantastic website where all sorts of documentation can be found supporting our traditional view of American history. Go to www.Wallbuilders.com.

One document in particular: "Historical Account of Thanksgiving."^[3] [is worth your time to check out. [Chuck Norris also invites you to check out Barton's video presentations, like the "History of Thanksgiving," and to listen to the Wallbuilders LIVE radio broadcasts — and I concur! Barton is an excellent resource, and he can be trusted. He does not traffic in the fake-news type stories but stays with what can be corroborated — he is an honest student of our history. Check him out!]

I need to close: Chuck Norris recommends we read what he considers a "stellar description of the Christian religious life and practice of the original Pilgrims and Separatists." You'll find it at the Plimoth Planation's website: "Faith of the Pilgrims." Norris recommends we all read it around our Thanksgiving tables. It's here, <https://www.plimoth.org>.
